MISCELLANEOUS READING.

PETER THE GREAT'S VISIT TO ENGLAND .-Peter the Great's person, and visit to England from Russia, in 1698, is thus described in Macaulav's last volume: The Russian Prince's stately form, his intellectual forehead, his piercing black eyes, his Tartar nose and mouth, his gracious smile, his frown, black with all the stormy rage and hate of a barbarous tyrant, and above all a strange nervous convulsion, which sometimes transformed his countenance, during a few moments, into an object on which it was impossible to look without terror; the immense quantities of meat which he devoured; the pint of brandy which establishment, and at prices which favorably com- vfool who jabbered at his feet, the monkey which grinned at the back of his chair, were, during some weeks, popular topics of conversation. He meanwhile shunned the public goze with a haughty shyness which inflamed curiosity. He went to a play; as soon as he perceived that pit, hoxes and galleries were staring, not at the play, but at him, he re> from observation by his attendants. He was desirous to see a sitting of the House of Lords; but, as he was determined not to be seen, he was forced to climb up the leads, and to peep through a small window. He heard with great interest the royal assent tax, and learned with amazement that this sum, though much larger by one balf than the whole revenue which he could wring from the population of the immense empire of voluntarily granted every year to their constitutional king.

William judiciously humored the whims of his illustrous guest, and stole to Norfolk street so quietly that nobody in the neighborhood recognized His Majesty in the thin gentleman who got out of the modest looking coach at the Czar's lodgings. The Czar returned the visit with the same precautions, and was admitted into Kensington House by CALIFORNIA GUANO, of recent importation, an- a back door. It was afterwards known that he took no notice of the fine pictures with which the palace was adorned. But over the chimney of the sitting room was a plate, which, by ingenious machinery, indicated ea, analyzing 11 per cent. Amisonia, warranted the direction of the wind, and with this plate he was in raptures.

Mount Vernon .- A letter written on board the United States sloop-of-war Pawnee, recently despatched on foreign service, records this touching incident: In passing down the Potomac River, and aug 15 remains that lie entombed in that hallowed spot. All hands were called, officers in swords and epaulets, sailors in their neat L Spring supply of FANCY and USEFUL AR. uniform, the fine guard of the Pawnee drawn TICLES, which I offer to the public as cheap as up, with belt and musket; at a given signal they can be found in this city. I name in part the large American ensign fell at half-mast, the following articles: Trimmings and Buttons the ship's bell tolled out its muffled tones, of all the latest styles: Worsted and Silk Bindings, the melancholly drums rolled their funeral salute, while the presented arms and uncovered heads of officers and men paid a sad beather, Silk and Gold Belts; Jett and Gilt tribute of respect to him who was "first in Clasps: Gold and Wax Bends: Spangles, Hair. war, first in peace, and first in the hearts of Tooth, Nail, Shaving and Cloth Brushes; Dres- his countrymen;" and so the Pawnee passed sing, Tucking, Pocket, Poff, Side, Neck and Long on silent and mourning, for he by whose grave she glided was the Father of his Country-a country scarcely a lifetime old; yet the children of the second generation are proidering and Sewing Silks; Pins, Needles, ready to tear it to pieces, and with its Hooks and Eyes, Thread, Twilled and Linen ruins hide forever from the eye of men Tapes, Tape Trimming, Crochet Braid and Nee- that grave and all the deeds which make it so famous in the world. Pass by this grave, oh Americans, as did the Pawnee and her gallant crew, and if after, you have the hearts to rend cach other, to scatter ashes and ruin over the land of Washington then, indeed, is vain all virtue and patriotism, and the sooner the iron heel of despotism is planted firmly upon the neck of the people the better. Let both North and South remember the cry, "Those that rule by the sword shall perish by the sword."

> DURIFY THE BLOOD!-MOFFAT'S VEGE-TABLE LIFE PILLS AND PHENIX BITTERS .- The high and envied celebrity which these pre-eminent Medicines have acquired for their invaluable efficacy in all the Diseases which they profess to cure, has rendered the usual practice of puffing not only unnecessary, but unworthy of them.
